Alert Auxiliary Deputy Nabs Four Suspects

James Sealock Grabs 3 Adults, Juvenile In Burglary Try

The Pickaway County Sheriff's Department, with valuable assistance from auxiliary deputies, closed the noose on a burglary ring which has been operating in this area the last several days.

Sheriff Charles H. Radcliff said three men and a juvenile, all from the Columbus area, were apprehended at 4:23 a. m. today by Auxiliary Deputy James Sealock at Jacktown near Commercial Point.

Held here today are Raymond E. Cole, 21, Alphonso Patete, 21, and Dennis E. Joy, 19. The juvenile, age 17, also is in custody. The sheriff said one of the men admitted being involved in at least eight burglaries in this area.

Sheriff Radcliff said the four persons were captured through the alertness of Sealock who lives at Orient and who is a veteran auxiliary lawman. He said they were nabbed after trying to burglarize the store of John Furniss at Jacktown.

DEPUTY Sealock, volunteering for constant patrol duty in the county since the outbreak of the burglaries, said he noticed a car pulling away from the grocery at about 4 a. m. He stopped the auto, made a quick investigation and took the four into custody.

Sheriff Radcliff said one of the men admitted Sealock's approaching car scared them away from the grocery. He told the sheriff he and his accomplices tried to burglarize the same store last Thursday, but were scared away when Furniss heard them.

One of the men also admitted the burglary of a service station at Route 104 and 316 Monday night. They narrowly escaped then when Deputy Dwight Radcliff discovered the entry just a short time after it had been committed.

Sealock said pinch bars and numerous other tools, cigarettes, radios and other articles were found in the men's car, driven by Joy.

Sheriff Radcliff today commended Sealock for his volunteer work in what appears to be a halting of the burglary spree in the county.

The Sheriff and his staff worked out a comprehensive plan after the burglaries started here. They divided the county into sections and kept them under almost constant patrol. Regular deputies worked overtime and auxiliaries Sealock, Donald Rolfe and John Wolford joined the roving force. "The effort apparently paid dividends" the sheriff said.

ONE of the suspects said he and his group were eye witnesses to the plane crash this week at Lockbourne Air Force Base which killed five crew members. He said they were preparing to burglarize a service station near the base when the plane went down.

Sheriff Radcliff said charges will be filed against the four as soon as the investigation is completed.

5 Counties Keep Role as Weathervanes

NEW YORK (AP)—Up until Tuesday there were eight counties, scattered across the country, known as "weathervanes" in presidential elections.

All eight had unbroken records for at least a half century of voting for the winner in presidential elections.

Today only five had survived. Three counties—Albany in Wyoming, Vanderburgh in Indiana, and Jasper in Iowa—broke the tradition and cast a majority of their votes for Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

The veteran of weathervanes, Crook County, Ore., kept its slate clean and voted for the winner as it has for the past 78 years, although the state went to Nixon.

Two New Hampshire counties that have voted for the winner since the turn of the century—Coos and Stafford—also chalked up majorities for the victor again.

Iowa's other weathervane, Palo Alto County, went for Sen. John F. Kennedy and, with Jasper County falling by the wayside, became the only one of Iowa's 99 counties that has never voted wrong in this century.

Wyoming remained with one weathervane intact. Although its Albany County gave Nixon a slight edge in nearly complete returns, Laramie County picked a winner again.

Total County Vote Hits 95.5 Per Cent

Pickaway Counties could be proud today at the way they turned out to vote in Tuesday's election.

Total vote was 12,853 of the county's 13,425 registered voters. That means that 95.5 per cent of those who were registered voted.

This is a grand achievement for local residents. The national average is between 70 and 80 per cent in years where interest is high and less in off years.

One precinct, 1-B reported after the count Tuesday night that all 418 registered voters had voted. There may have been other 100 per

Employment In Nation Shows Drop

WASHINGTON (AP)—Unemployment jumped by 191,000 in October although the idle rate normally declines in the fall. Employment dropped by 277,000.

When the figures were released at the Labor Department, a government spokesman acknowledged in response to questions that the report could have been announced before Tuesday's election.

Some Democratic partisans had contended the administration was holding up an unfavorable employment report for political reasons.

Seymour Wolfbein, the Labor Department's manpower chief, said that the over-all employment-unemployment data was available around the first of every month.

But he said it was the usual procedure to hold up the figures until supplemental data was available.

The October report showed that unemployment rose by 191,000, increasing from 3,388,000 in September to 3,579,000. The idle figure usually declines by around 200,000 in October.

This contra-seasonal climb in unemployment sent the seasonally adjusted employment rate from 5.7 per cent in September to 6.4 per cent in October. This is the highest such rate of the idle in proportion to the total work force since December 1958.

Employment declined from 67,767,000 to 67,490,000. October usually brings a seasonal increase of about 400,000 jobs.

Kennedy To Select Aide, Work with Eisenhower

Khrush Note Indicates Lull In Cold War

Congratulations Sent To Kennedy Plus Bid For Summit Parley

WASHINGTON (AP)—Soviet Premier Khrushchev is already maneuvering for a summit conference with President-elect John F. Kennedy. He has begun with soft words and this probably signifies a lull in the cold war for the next several months.

Western diplomats here agree that Khrushchev's interest in resuming negotiations looking to a new summit meeting was behind the unusual message of congratulations which he dispatched to Kennedy Wednesday.

In his message, Khrushchev called for a return to the kind of Soviet-U.S. relations which existed in the administration of President Franklin D. Roosevelt at a time when the two countries were allied against Nazi Germany. But he went beyond that reference to the past.

He declared that in the interest of world peace the Soviet Union is ready "to continue the efforts to solve such a pressing problem as disarmament, to settle the German issue through the earliest conclusion of a peace treaty and to reach agreement on other questions."

"Any steps in this direction," he said in a sentence that could embrace both summit and diplomatic negotiations, "will always meet with the full understanding and support of the Soviet government."

Kennedy during the campaign declared himself willing to go to the summit but only on condition that "there is some reason to believe that a meeting of minds can be obtained on either Berlin, outer space, or general disarmament—including nuclear testing."

For the period immediately after the next president takes office Jan. 20 Kennedy said the president should focus on building up U.S. strength because "the Soviet Union does understand strength."

Neither in Kennedy's statement before the election nor in Khrushchev's new message is there any hint of changes in basis U.S. or Soviet policy.

Khrushchev has said repeatedly that he wants a peace treaty signed separately by East and West Germany, whereas the United States stands firm on a peace treaty signed by a united Germany. Khrushchev wants the western Allies to pull out of West Berlin. Kennedy, like Eisenhower, has pledged firm U. S. support for the continued independence of West Berlin from Communist rule.

What the friendly wording of the Khrushchev message does seem to mean is that the Soviet leader is prepared to resume active broadcast negotiations with a new U. S. administration on a variety of problems.

Most Nations, Including Soviet, Hail Kennedy; Red China Growls

LONDON (AP)—The giants of the Communist world split today in their reaction to the election of John F. Kennedy. Moscow was friendly, Peiping hostile.

While most of the Free World looked to the U.S. president-elect for dynamic new leadership, Soviet Premier Khrushchev fired off a congratulatory telegram to Kennedy declaring readiness for "most friendly relations" and proposing negotiations on disarmament, Germany and other cold war issues.

Khrushchev, who blamed President Eisenhower for the U2 incident and collapse of the Paris summit, said he hoped Soviet-

American relations "will again follow the line along which they were developing in Franklin Roosevelt's time."

Red China's official New China news agency, however, described the president-elect as a member of one of America's richest families and called him an advocate of military spending and war preparations.

The comment made clear that the election has not altered Peiping's hate-America policy.

The differing Red reactions reflected the Moscow-Peiping argument over peaceful coexistence—with Khrushchev holding that war is not inevitable because com-

Kennedy's Victory Closest Recorded in U.S. since 1888

WASHINGTON (AP)—Despite a dwindling popular margin from a record voter turnout, Sen. John F. Kennedy held 30 electoral votes today as he prepared to take over the presidency 71 days hence.

With counting continuing in California and Alaska, Kennedy had captured 22 states with 300 electoral votes—31 more than the needed 269. Vice President Richard M. Nixon took control in 25 states with 188 votes. Eight electors in Mississippi and six in Alabama were not committed.

But in the popular vote, Kennedy held a margin of less than 325,000 votes in a tally of more than 66 million for the major party candidates. With returns yet to come and tallies for minor parties, it appeared that Kennedy's presidential victory might come on less than a majority of the popular vote cast. His 50.2 per cent of the popular vote made it the tightest election since the first Benjamin Harrison-Grover Cleveland race in 1888. Republican Harris won an electoral victory then while running more than 100,000 behind in popular vote.

Plans already were under way for Kennedy representatives to work with administration officials in arranging for the changeover next Jan. 20.

Foreseeing a "difficult and challenging" period during the next four years, Kennedy said Wednesday that "there is general agreement by all our citizens that a supreme national effort is needed to move this country through the 1960s."

"All of our energies will be devoted to the interests of the United States and the cause of freedom around the world."

Working with him will be a Democratic-controlled Congress in which, however, Republicans will show some gains over the present lineup. For the last six years, Congress and the White House have been controlled by different parties.

Tuesday's election provided a Senate makeup of 64 Democrats and 36 Republicans to replace the 66-34 division of the present Senate. With tabulations in five House races incomplete, the Democrats

Pope Sends Cable To Kennedy, U.S.

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope John XXIII today cabled congratulations to President-elect John F. Kennedy and good wishes to "the beloved American people."

The pontiff's message made no mention of the fact that Kennedy is the first Roman Catholic ever elected to the U.S. presidency. This was in line with the Vatican's policy throughout the campaign of publicly ignoring the issue of Kennedy's religion.

The Pope's cable said: "We congratulate you sincerely on your election as president of the United States of America, and, with the prayer that Almighty God may assist you in discharging the duties of your exalted office, we express our cordial good wishes for the well-being of yourself and your family and for the happiness and prosperity of the beloved American people."

Executive Transition Plans Readied

Outgoing President 'Welcomes' Meetings With New Regime

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (AP)—President-elect Kennedy conferred with his aides today about the selection of a representative to act as liaison with President Eisenhower's aides.

Kennedy had not yet replied to Eisenhower's telegram on the question of "the orderly transfer of executive responsibility."

Kennedy's press secretary, Pierre Salinger, said "we expect to have the answer some time today."

It is the normal procedure for the president-elect to name a representative to keep in touch with the administration in the period between the election and the inauguration on Jan. 20.

The President also said he would welcome meetings between designated Kennedy representatives and those of the Eisenhower administration, particularly Secretary of State Christian A. Herter.

In a message sent from his vacation headquarters, Eisenhower suggested that Kennedy send an aide to meet with the White House chief of staff, Wilton B. Persons, to make the arrangements.

"I would like you to know that I stand ready to meet with you at any mutually convenient time to consider problems of continuity of government and an orderly transfer of executive responsibility on January 20 from my administration to yours," the President said.

Eisenhower sent this message Wednesday in a telegram to Kennedy at his Hyannis Port, Mass., headquarters. Press secretary James Hagerty made it public this morning after an expected Kennedy reply had not arrived in time to be released simultaneously with the President's wire.

Hagerty told newsmen he understood Kennedy's answer—presumably an acceptance of Eisenhower's offer—would be released as soon as it is received sometime during the day.

Hagerty said he had told Pierre Salinger, Kennedy's press representative, in a telephone conversation this morning that he was going ahead with his plan to make public the President's message. Hagerty said he did not know the reason for Kennedy's delay.

In urging advance consultation on foreign policy, Eisenhower told Kennedy: "The secretary of state will be prepared for meetings to provide information on foreign policy activities on which there will be special need for continuity after you shall have had the opportunity, after inauguration, to arrange these matters to your satisfaction."

The President is known to be especially anxious to keep Kennedy up to date on all developments involving the former president, disarmament and a possible East-West summit conference.

Eisenhower also hoped that Kennedy would name his secretary of state within a few weeks so that he could work with Herter in the days before the Democrats take over the government.

Eisenhower already has directed his 10-man team of Cabinet officers, plus the heads of 20 key agencies, to cooperate closely with Kennedy's official staff.

In the 71 days remaining before Kennedy becomes president, however, his men will not join in policy making. Hagerty said Eisenhower intends to remain fully responsible for all decisions until the moment Kennedy is sworn in.

On the credit side: 1. The important powers of a new president, which Kennedy has had a chance to study from the congressional viewpoint for 14 years. These include the appointive power and the job of drawing up the federal budget with all its far-reaching ramifications.

2. The affirmative White House leadership which Kennedy will give in behalf of the measures, in contrast to President Eisenhower's opposition to them.

3. The switch in the chairmanship of the House Labor and Education Committee from conservative Rep. Graham Barden D-N.C. to liberal Rep. Adam Clayton Powell R-N.Y. This committee handles the wage and school bills. Barden is retiring from Congress.

Depressed areas legislation would seem to have the best chance of quick action in the 1961 session. Democrats got such a measure through in 1958 and 1960 but Eisenhower each time killed it with a veto.

The legislation is designed to help areas of high and chronic unemployment attract new industries with federal loans, grants and technical aid.

Kennedy has said he will wait ing any of the top officials who will make up his administration.

But he will need to designate soon the man he expects to step into the shoes of Christian A.
Herter as secretary of state.
Among those mentioned for this role are Adlai E. Stevenson, Rep.
Chester Bowles of Connecticut,
Chairman J. William Fulbright

Relations Committee and the former New York governor,
W. Averell Harriman.
Any of these, and particularly Stevenson, might be named by Kennedy as American ambassador to the United Nations. Henry Cabot Lodge resigned this post after holding it for seven and one-half years to make the unsuccessful race for vice president on Nixon's ticket.

Kennedy will have to decide whether to go himself or send an agent to the mid-December NATO meeting in Paris. Herter, and possibly Eisenhower, will attend.
It is considered likely that Robert Kennedy, the president-elect's brother, will fill a top advisory post in the new administration.
He may be active in liaison work with the outgoing GOP administration.

The agreement will insure even

Kennedy to put new life in the Western alliance.
"The big sleep ends" said a headline in London's conservative Daily Mail.
Stockholm Expressen, Scandi-
navia's largest newspaper, said
the tremendous task ahead of checking Communist advances
and said the Free World hopes Kennedy "will be able to turn the tide."

Cuba's government-controlled press gave the expected secondary—and acid—treatment to the election. La Calle, referring to Kennedy and Nixon, said one candidate was "as much a bandit as the other."

But many Latin-American newspapers expressed the hope a new administration would give more attention to their national problems. Mexico City's Diario de la
Tarde said Latin America expects
a sort of Marshall Plan.

The Chinese Nationalists on
Formosa, who had favored Vice President Nixon for his stand on Quemoy and Matsu, put on a brave face at the Kennedy election. President Chiang Kai-shek and other officials sent congratulations, and Formosa newspapers said no basic change in America's
China policy would result.

Japan's multimillion-circulation
dailies expressed hope for new energy and flexibility in Washington. Asahi, the largest, said the Kennedy victory was recognition of the need to "re-establish America's international leadership on a new foundation."

The election results were received indifferently in much of the Middle East.

Kennedy to put new life in the Western alliance.
"The big sleep ends" said a
headline in London's conservative Daily Mail.
Stockholm Expressen, Scandi-
navia's largest newspaper, said
the tremendous task ahead of
checking Communist advances
and said the Free World hopes Kennedy "will be able to turn the tide."

Cuba's government-controlled
press gave the expected secondary—and acid—treatment to the election. La Calle, referring to
Kennedy and Nixon, said one candidate was "as much a bandit as
the other."

But many Latin-American newspapers expressed the hope a new administration would give more attention to their national problems. Mexico City's Diario de la
Tarde said Latin America expects
a sort of Marshall Plan.

The Chinese Nationalists on
Formosa, who had favored Vice
President Nixon for his stand on Quemoy and Matsu, put on a brave face at the Kennedy election. President Chiang Kai-shek and other officials sent congratulations, and Formosa newspapers said no basic change in America's
China policy would result.

Japan's multimillion-circulation
dailies expressed hope for new energy and flexibility in Washington. Asahi, the largest, said the
Kennedy victory was recognition of the need to "re-establish America's international leadership on a
new foundation."

The election results were received indifferently in much of
the Middle East.

Americans Are Too Soft

A severe indictment of the nation's physical and mental preparedness has been handed up by a group of educators which has surveyed the brawn and brain of today's generation and found both lacking. Exercise and muscle - building have reached the low point where a survey in New Mexico of boys of 10 and 11 revealed 43 per cent could not chin themselves one time on a bar.

Another study found that of a 30 - minute gym period in 122 classes scattered throughout the land, only eight minutes is spent in sport or gym activity. The remainder is consumed in changing clothes, listening to instructions and waiting turns.

Whereas physical exercise only a generation ago was measured in hours per day, it now has been reduced to minutes. From the automobile revolution, which took people off their feet, to television, which removed them from playgrounds and active sports, today's generation of tomorrow has few opportunities to develop its bodies and does its best to evade even these.

So many forces within contemporary society seem devoted to the goal of effortless living that it is not surprising the results are being felt. College physical education instructors are almost unanimous in condemnation of the jellyfish bodies being given them to work with.

From Avery Brundage, who blamed the American failures in the Rome Olympics on poor physical training, to Michigan

State football coach Duffy Daugherty, who says lack of physical exercise has triggered a corresponding decay of the mental attitudes of the nation's youth, people who work most closely with the physical energy of young Americans have found it in a steady decline.

Just as muscular evolution has occurred since the days at the turn of this century when carrying the day's supply of firewood from the wood shed to the fireplace was a common daily chore for younger members of the family, easy living has brought with it a corresponding drop in the competitive spirit. It is understandable that a body which has become accustomed to shun walking as long as any other method of locomotion is available will naturally possess a brain which seeks means of avoiding obstacles instead of ways of overcoming them.

It was similar decay which brought about the downfall of every leading civilization preceding ours. Few of the citizens of Rome or Athens believed their lofty empires could ever be dissolved, but they were. The decline began when the hard toil to reach the top stopped and the people began to live off the fat of the land.

It is not to late to rebuild the American fiber. Even if it means replacing productive labor with exercise bars, trampolines and rowing machines, every huff and puff carries it one step forward.

Salute Problems Arise

The Shah of Iran, a tenacious man as well as monarch, deserves congratulations for at last producing (with his wife, Queen Farah Diba) an heir, although his Russian neighbors may be displeased by this potential continuation of the monarchy.

That the birth of the new prince was announced by a 41-gun salute is an interesting, if not vital, note.

In this country, a 21-gun salute is tops, for the President and visiting monarchs. Lesser figures may hear lesser salutes, from 19 guns on down. But other nations, more profligate with their ammunition, set their own rules in such matters.

One Latin American ruler once decreed a 99-gun salute for himself. The stability of Latin nations being what it is, he can hardly be blamed for wanting to keep his artillerymen in practice.

Perhaps a new measurement of national power could be worked out on the basis of artillery salutes. The number of guns to be inversely proportional to the nation's rank.

Another problem is raised here, too. When the millennium arrives, and all nations finally sign a disarmament agreement, what will be used in place of the honorary cannonade? Ruffles and flourishes simply wouldn't fill the bill.

Perhaps a special supply of fire-works could be kept in the national vaults for state visits. It would surely add another knotty problem to the art of diplomatic protocol.

Try and Stop Me

"KAMPUS KUTUPS":

1. "Tomorrow's Tom and Mary's wedding--so we bridesmaids are staying in this evening to give Mary a shower."

"That's not a bad idea. I guess we ushers will stay home and wash off Old Tom a little bit."

2. "Have you got a fast pick-up in your new car?"

"You idiot. That's my grandmother."

3. "I wonder who can be sending us this telegram?"

"It's Western Union. I recognize the stationery."

4. "Do you like bathing beauties?"

"I dunno. I never bathed any."

Prof. Outgro J. Schmirkase estimates that married women spend 29.6% of their time persuading their husbands that when they make a sudden right turn from a left lane, they are being merely careless and not what the driver behind calls them.

Views on Television-Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP TV-Radio Writer NEW YORK (AP) — The experts and the analysts will be working over Tuesday's presidential vote for days and weeks to come and evaluating the influence of television on politics.

Whatever their conclusions, it is obvious that never before have so many people stayed up for so many hours glued to their television sets as the returns rolled into sight on the home screens. Thousands staggered off to work Wednesday morning without having gone to bed at all. "I just couldn't seem to turn off the darned set," complained any number of baggy-eyed, weary citizens.

Those who managed to keep their eyes open past 3 a. m. were rewarded with one of the most dramatic moments of the long night of mounting voting returns. That was when Vice President Richard M. Nixon and his wife stepped before the cameras and he—with a determined smile and great poise—delivered his conditional concession. He handled himself very well and won much admiration. But every woman watching Pat Nixon could identify herself with this tired woman at her husband's side, trying — and failing — to conceal her disappointment—even heartbreak.

Not long after midnight, NBC publicists telephoned around triumphantly to report that a quick survey by the American Research Bureau showed that early evening coverage by its team was getting the lion's share of the home audience—almost half. CBS came second and ABC third.

This viewer, watching the competition on three TV sets, thought that in terms of quality, production values and understandability, it was a tie between CBS and NBC.

Five programs new this season have popped into the top 20 shows on the most recent Nielsen ratings list: "Checkmate" (No. 10); "Andy Griffith Show" (11); "The Tall Man" (15); "My Three Sons" (18), and "Candid Camera" (20). And (Alfred Hitchcock presents) managed to change networks and time period and still stay in the winners' circle—in 19th place.

DON'T GET ANY BASE IDEAS, IKE TELLS CASTRO—Here is Guantanamo, the 45-square-mile U.S. naval base in Cuba which President Eisenhower says will be defended "with whatever assets may be appropriate" in event of attack. One photo shows U.S. Marines searching Cuban employees as they leave after a day's work. There are some 3,000 working in the base. And there are five or six thousand servicemen and families. The U.S. position is based on an agreement of 1903 and a treaty signed in 1934.

Americans Are Too Soft

A severe indictment of the nation's physical and mental preparedness has been handed up by a group of educators which has surveyed the brawn and brain of today's generation and found both lacking. Exercise and muscle - building have reached the low point where a survey in New Mexico of boys of 10 and 11 revealed 43 per cent could not chin themselves one time on a bar.

Another study found that of a 30 - minute gym period in 122 classes scattered throughout the land, only eight minutes is spent in sport or gym activity. The remainder is consumed in changing clothes, listening to instructions and waiting turns.

Whereas physical exercise only a generation ago was measured in hours per day, it now has been reduced to minutes. From the automobile revolution, which took people off their feet, to television, which removed them from playgrounds and active sports, today's generation of tomorrow has few opportunities to develop its bodies and does its best to evade even these.

So many forces within contemporary society seem devoted to the goal of effortless living that it is not surprising the results are being felt. College physical education instructors are almost unanimous in condemnation of the jellyfish bodies being given them to work with.

From Avery Brundage, who blamed the American failures in the Rome Olympics on poor physical training, to Michigan

State football coach Duffy Daugherty, who says lack of physical exercise has triggered a corresponding decay of the mental attitudes of the nation's youth, people who work most closely with the physical energy of young Americans have found it in a steady decline.

Just as muscular evolution has occurred since the days at the turn of this century when carrying the day's supply of firewood from the wood shed to the fireplace was a common daily chore for younger members of the family, easy living has brought with it a corresponding drop in the competitive spirit. It is understandable that a body which has become accustomed to shun walking as long as any other method of locomotion is available will naturally possess a brain which seeks means of avoiding obstacles instead of ways of overcoming them.

It was similar decay which brought about the downfall of every leading civilization preceding ours. Few of the citizens of Rome or Athens believed their lofty empires could ever be dissolved, but they were. The decline began when the hard toil to reach the top stopped and the people began to live off the fat of the land.

It is not to late to rebuild the American fiber. Even if it means replacing productive labor with exercise bars, trampolines and rowing machines, every huff and puff carries it one step forward.

Salute Problems Arise

The Shah of Iran, a tenacious man as well as monarch, deserves congratulations for at last producing (with his wife, Queen Farah Diba) an heir, although his Russian neighbors may be displeased by this potential continuation of the monarchy.

That the birth of the new prince was announced by a 41-gun salute is an interesting, if not vital, note.

In this country, a 21-gun salute is tops, for the President and visiting monarchs. Lesser figures may hear lesser salutes, from 19 guns on down. But other nations, more profligate with their ammunition, set their own rules in such matters.

One Latin American ruler once decreed a 99-gun salute for himself. The stability of Latin nations being what it is, he can hardly be blamed for wanting to keep his artillerymen in practice.

Perhaps a new measurement of national power could be worked out on the basis of artillery salutes. The number of guns to be inversely proportional to the nation's rank.

Another problem is raised here, too. When the millennium arrives, and all nations finally sign a disarmament agreement, what will be used in place of the honorary cannonade? Ruffles and flourishes simply wouldn't fill the bill.

Perhaps a special supply of fire-works could be kept in the national vaults for state visits. It would surely add another knotty problem to the art of diplomatic protocol.

Big Praise for Big City

NEW YORK (AP)—Here is the only place in the world where a skyline is a calorie.

If you watch it long, the danger is that it will make you fat with a sense of belonging.

To live in Manhattan is a prolonged invitation to challenge. This is the world's greatest town for saying "hello" — and then ploughing a sincere elbow between your eyeballs without love or apology.

Like San Francisco and New Orleans, it is a self-conscious citadel. It can afford the luxury of laughing at itself, but still present itself as the great dinosaur of modern world cities.

New York is the most old-fashioned of majestic towns in some ways, the least in others.

Of course, to be old-fashioned here means that you cry when they tear down a 40-year-old apartment house and replace it with a 40-story office building.

The real cause for weeping is this: Some of the buildings that are destroyed are far better architecture than the buildings that succeed them.

There is no major city on earth that tries harder to achieve newness—a city more willing to sacrifice its grandeur of granite to reflect its future in mirrored towers of metal bordered glass.

But in this quicksilver-melting of its past, Manhattan has hazily destroyed some of its finest previous ingredients.

Sure people make buildings, but good buildings, also help make good people—and certainly do sustain them by a pride of belonging.

A building can be more than a place to come into while it is raining. It can be a sunshine shelter too. It can be a spiritual rainbow in stone. It can give you a sense of personal wealth merely because you work in it. It can be part of the salary of living called satisfaction.

This is an odd town. People come from everywhere to Manhattan, but most of them are hearts and minds in transit. They are looters by intent, if not always by performance. They believe there is something here that can be stolen and taken away and enjoyed better somewhere else.

The truth is, of course, that many of the people who come to take from Manhattan remain to give to it. The stranger in time becomes at home in its concrete forest.

This is a marvelous place to invest a lifetime—as well as to visit. Or at least the productive part of a lifetime.

There are those who say that Manhattan is the best town to grow old in. I don't believe that. The town's policy of traffic control... fast-paced one way streets than can be crossed safely only if one has the rapidity of the rabbit—can but increase the hazards of the elderly pedestrian and reduce his sense of security and feeling of being essential. It is hard for him to believe he belongs and is wanted.

But it is always a great town to grow and stay young in. The greatest. It is a three-ring circus of greatest available by seaplane and helicopter as well as by subway.

Because it is, after 300 years of youth, still a young town, one both enjoys and resents its appetite for change.

They tear down so many strong able-bodied buildings here to make way for newer ones that a balding, middle-aged human building has an uneasy sense of teetering on the edge of survival, too.

Surinam, South America, formerly Dutch Guiana, is governed by a governor appointed by the Queen of the Netherlands.

Views on Television-Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP TV-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The experts and the analysts will be working over Tuesday's presidential vote for days and weeks to come and evaluating the influence of television on politics.

Whatever their conclusions, it is obvious that never before have so many people stayed up for so many hours glued to their television sets as the returns rolled into sight on the home screens. Thousands staggered off to work Wednesday morning without having gotten to bed at all. "I just couldn't seem to turn off the darned set," complained any number of baggy-eyed, weary citizens.

Those who managed to keep their eyes open past 3 a. m. were rewarded with one of the most dramatic moments of the long night of mounting voting returns.

That was when Vice President Richard M. Nixon and his wife stepped before the cameras and he—with a determined smile and great poise—delivered his conditional concession. He handled himself very well and won much admiration. But every woman watching Pat Nixon could identify herself with this tired woman at her husband's side, trying — and failing — to conceal her disappointment—even heartbreak.

Not long after midnight, NBC publicists telephoned around triumphantly to report that a quick survey by the American Research Bureau showed that early evening coverage by its team was getting the lion's share of the home audience—almost half. CBS came second and ABC third.

This viewer, watching the competition on three TV sets, thought that in terms of quality, production values and understandability, it was a tie between CBS and NBC.

Five programs new this season have popped into the top 20 shows on the most recent Nielsen ratings list: "Checkmate" (No. 10); "Andy Griffith Show" (11); "The Tall Man" (15); "My Three Sons" (18); and "Candid Camera" (20). And (Alfred Hitchcock presents) managed to change networks and time period and still stay in the winners' circle—in 19th place.

Ohio sales of Series E and H Savings Bonds continue to show an increase during September with sales of $234 million — an increase of $34 million over September 1959.

Sales for the first nine months exceed $221 million with the current income Series H bond showing a substantial increase the past three months.

County Chairman Judge William D. Radcliff stated "the current income H Bond is an ideal investment for those who desire a semi-annual interest check. The H Bond yields 2 1/2 per cent for the first year and a half and 4 per cent for the remaining 8 1/2 years.

"Of special interest to retired persons is the Treasury provision which allows E Bond holders to exchange E Bonds for Series H without immediately paying income tax on the interest accumulated."

Sales in Pickaway County were $31,696 as compared to sales of $43,697 in September, 1959.

Worker Fear Of Automation Gets Study

Both Industry, Labor Keenly Interested in What Future Holds

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — What to do about the worker who sees coming automation as a threat to his job is a growing problem for both industry and labor leaders. And with the election out of the way there may be new pressure on some government agencies to increase their study of the question.

A company whose products are a part of the automation that labor fears stresses that in its own shop the output is presided over by workers — in fact, that their personal skill can't be usurped by a machine.

Another company making mechanization devices is offering an automatic machine to retrain persons displaced by the automation of its own products supply to industry.

And schools spring up all over the land to teach workers how to handle the mechanical giants taking over in factories and offices. The skill is as specialized as any of the manual and mental ones being supplanted.

How critical is the problem is hotly argued.

United Steelworkers Union officials have charged that automation has been a major factor in eliminating 10,000 production and maintenance jobs in the last year. A labor Department survey shows about one fourth of the old jobs disappearing when electronic computers come into offices. But it adds that about one third of those displaced were given other work and about 2 per cent were trained for the purely computer jobs.

Management's reply to labor charges is that automation creates new jobs as well as eliminating old ones, that speedier and cheaper production opens markets that in turn make jobs outside the factory, and that anyway mechanization has been going on since the industrial revolution with everyone benefitting in the long run.

The company that boasts of non-automated workers turning out automated devices is International Rectifier Corp. of El Segundo, Calif. It cites these examples in making its products:

Silicon power diodes require 27 in-process tests, most requiring personal attention, with no mass testing shortcuts.

Only superskilled workers can make rectifiers. They must be tested by people analyzing the results.

Solar cells are produced by techniques requiring human qualities the company says approach the artistic.

The World Today

Editor's Note: The election is over and the task of putting a new program into effect lies ahead for Sen. John F. Kennedy. His problems and his programs as they apply to domestic affairs are discussed by James Marlow, AP news analyst in this first of a series of three special post-election articles.

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP) — President-elect John F. Kennedy made enough campaign promises and pledges—for better living in America—to keep him busy for his four White House years.

"The theme of this campaign," he said, "is going to be action."

His actions—and his frustrations—begin as soon as he takes office and has to deal with a Congress where, although his Democrats retained control of it, there is a built-in stumbling block to some of his liberal ideas.

This is the old coalition of conservatives: most Republicans and the Southern Democrats. They can block, blast and baffle the man in the White House.

A president can operate in one of three ways in dealing with Congress: forcefully, like Wilson and Franklin D. Roosevelt; beligerently, like Truman; or cautiously like Harding and Eisenhower.

Those who know Kennedy expect him to be forceful. But his squeaky victory over Vice President Richard M. Nixon has deprived him before he starts of that awe professional politicians have for a heavy winner.

Confronting Kennedy immediately will be two domestic problems involving money:

1. The country has had an economic downturn. He must try to avoid a recession.

2. Kennedy has never come up with a cost estimate for the programs he proposes. Nixon said it would be $15 billion. Kennedy hooted at that. But soon after he takes office he will have to send his list of expenses—his budget—to Congress.

He has said he would not ask a tax increase. But he also promised to keep the budget balanced—spending no more than is taken in through taxes—except in times of national emergency or severe recession.

How then, in view of his broad and far-reaching promises, would he do the balancing? He suggested various fields in which he thinks expenses might be cut. And he is going to look for tax loopholes that can be plugged up.

Still, most voters probably never heard of one-tenth or even one-fiftieth of the pledges and promises he made because they were contained so many times in prepared speeches which, although he stood behind them, he threw away in order to talk to crowds about something which occurred to him at the moment.

But they cut across great fields of American life at home. He said: "I believe the times demand invention, innovation, imagination and decision."

What follows here is related only to his ideas on doing things at home and is separate from his proposals on national defense and foreign policy, both of which require money and plenty of it. Here's a look at them:

High in his consciousness are the nation's natural resources, from trees to water power. He promised action on: A comprehensive plan for many-purpose river development; "restoration of American leadership in nuclear power development; a stronger fight against water pollution; intensified research on such development programs as weather control and conversion of salt water into fresh; expansion of forest management and access road development.

His proposals on health, education and aid to older people should keep him and Congress in a whirl for four years:

A medical care for the aged program paid through Social Security; higher pay for teachers through federal aid; federal grants for construction, expansion, and modernization of medical schools, dental schools and schools of public health; loans and scholarships for medical students; grants for renovating older hospitals; long term grants for increased medical research; stepped up efforts in rehabilitating the handicapped; increased Social Security payments; improved employment opportunities for older workers; a "massive construction program" for schools and colleges.

Then there's the field of civil rights, the most inflammatory the members of Congress ever try to handle.

Here are some of the things Kennedy said on this: "The Democratic party intends to use the full legal and moral authority of the federal government—including in particular the presidency itself—to put an end to racial and religious discrimination in every area of our national life—so that every American has the same right as every other American to go to school, to get a job, to vote, to buy a house, to use any public facility and to sit down at any public lunch. And he talked of creating a fair employment practices commission—an idea which is dynamite with Southerners in Congress—to make sure people applying for jobs are not turned down because of color or religion.

Then there's labor. Only part of his ideas on this are given here. He wants to raise the minimum wage to $1.25 an hour, a notion blocked by conservatives in Congress last summer. Kennedy promised full employment, better unemployment pay for workers who lose their jobs; and he promised to think up a special program for areas with chronic unemployment.

During the campaign he came up with a farm program which still needs a lot of explaining. He wants to expand the highway program, to cut down interest rates on home-buying, to provide a better diet for those depending on surplus food packages, and to wipe out slums.

This isn't everything he promised—just for Americans at home—but it will do for a starter.

The World Today

Editor's Note: The election is over and the task of putting a new program into effect lies ahead for Sen. John F. Kennedy. His problems and his programs as they apply to domestic affairs are discussed by James Marlow, AP news analyst in this first of a series of three special post-election articles.

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP) — President-elect John F. Kennedy made enough campaign promises and pledges—for better living in America—to keep him busy for his four White House years.

"The theme of this campaign," he said, "is going to be action."

His actions—and his frustrations—begin as soon as he takes office and has to deal with a Congress where, although his Democrats retained control of it, there is a built-in stumbling block to some of his liberal ideas.

This is the old coalition of conservatives: most Republicans and the Southern Democrats. They can block, blast and baffle the man in the White House.

A president can operate in one of three ways in dealing with Congress: forcefully, like Wilson and Franklin D. Roosevelt; beligerently, like Truman; or cautiously, like Harding and Eisenhower.

Those who know Kennedy expect him to be forceful. But his squeaky victory over Vice President Richard M. Nixon has deprived him before he starts of that awe professional politicians have for a heavy winner.

Confronting Kennedy immediately will be two domestic problems involving money:

1. The country has had an economic downturn. He must try to avoid a recession.

2. Kennedy has never come up with a cost estimate for the programs he proposes. Nixon said it would be $15 billion. Kennedy hooted at that. But soon after he takes office he will have to send his list of expenses—his budget—to Congress.

He has said he would not ask a tax increase. But he also promised to keep the budget balanced—spending no more than is taken in through taxes—except in times of national emergency or severe recession.

How then, in view of his broad and far-reaching promises, would he do the balancing? He suggested various fields in which he thinks expenses might be cut. And he is going to look for tax loopholes that can be plugged up.

Still, most voters probably never heard of one-tenth or even one-fiftieth of the pledges and promises he made because they were contained so many times in prepared speeches which, although he stood behind them, he threw away in order to talk to crowds about something which occurred to him at the moment.

But they cut across great fields of American life at home. He said: "I believe the times demand invention, innovation, imagination and decision."

What follows here is related only to his ideas on doing things at home and is separate from his proposals on national defense and foreign policy, both of which require money and plenty of it.

Here's a look at them:

High in his consciousness are the nation's natural resources, from trees to water power.

He promised action on: A comprehensive plan for many-purpose river development; "restoration of American leadership in nuclear power development; a stronger fight against water pollution; inatensified research on such development programs as weather control and conversion of salt water into fresh; expansion of forest management and access road development.

His proposals on health, education and aids to older people should keep him and Congress in a whirl for four years:

A medical care for the aged program paid through Social Security; higher pay for teachers through federal aid; federal grants for construction, expansion, and modernization of medical schools, dental schools and schools of public health; loans and scholarships for medical students; grants for renovating older hospitals; long term grants for increased medical research; stepped up efforts in rehabilitating the handicapped; increased Social Security payments; improved employment opportunities for older workers; a "massive construction program" for schools and colleges.

Then there's the field of civil rights, the most inflammatory the members of Congress ever try to handle.

Here are some of the things Kennedy said on this:

"The Democratic party intends

How Weather Looks Today

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Official Weather Bureau summary of Ohio's weather outlook:

Cloudy, rainy weather continued over Ohio during the evening hours Wednesday. Total rainfall amounts ranged from near 9 inch in Cincinnati to 2 in Toledo. Dayton had a half-inch, and Columbus .6.

A cold front moved across the state during the night, and the colder air behind the front changed the rain to light snow flurries. Temperatures were still dropping due to the cold air early this morning.

Cincinnati and Dayton had 27, Columbus 34 and Marietta 36.

Cloudy to partly cloudy skies will prevail over Ohio today, and snow flurries are predicted near Lake Erie. Mostly fair weather is expected over the state tonight.

Temperatures will be colder today and tonight. Readings today will be in the 30s and will range from upper teens to low 20s tonight.

Because the calm waters are rich in vitamins, a bay on the southwest coast of Puerto Rico contains millions of microorganisms which glow in the dark. The phenomenon, called bioluminescence, occurs there to a degree found in few other places.

This isn't everything he promised—just for Americans at home—but it will do for a starter.

Gardeners Seem To Be Neglecting Patron Saint

St. Fiacre, the patron saint of gardening, is seldom seen these days. He seems to have evaded the garden club ladies. And perhaps this pleases him more than it distresses him.

St. Fiacre was an Irish nobleman of the 7th Century who embraced the monastic life and sailed for France where he founded a monastery.

Evidently a man of drive and organizational ability he made a hard bargain with a certain landed French nobleman who took an interest in his work. The man promised St. Fiacre all the land around which he could plow in one day's time.

St. Fiacre used a Bishop's crozier and was able (with the crozier and Heavenly aid) to plow around a vast acreage. The Frenchman was as good as his word however and kept his part of the bargain.

A WOMAN who chanced to witness St. Fiacre plowing with the crozier broadcast his secret. The fact that the woman was not tending to her own business irked St. Fiacre deeply. He meted out cruel punishment to any woman caught on the monastery grounds thereafter.

This legend notwithstanding, St. Fiacre deserves a place in today's gardens.

A man of drive and ability as well as piety he was above all a gardener.

He is always depicted with a spade in his hand, certainly, a fitting symbol for the patron saint of gardeners.

And knowing the lengths to which a gardener's curiosity will take her maybe 7th Century women gardeners were a pest on the monastery grounds. If so, St. Fiacre was equal the task of getting rid of them.

Tropical Tree Grows Big But Not in North

Alys Sutcliffe, horticulturist, Brooklyn Botanic Garden has identified Mrs. Thomas R. Smith's beautiful flowering tree as Datura suaveolens.

In Mexico, according to the horticulturist, this grows to be large-tree size but unfortunately in the north it is not hardy enough to achieve much size.

In Mexico it is known as Wedding Bells.

Rats, insects, and fungi destroy 33 million tons of the world's storage food each year.

Helen Van Pelt Wilson Says Arrangers Show Improvement

The Helen Van Pelt Wilson Flower Arrangement Calendar for 1961 is the 15th calendar that Mrs. Wilson has had published. Long a favorite with flower arrangers the calendar is eagerly awaited by the garden club contingent.

Since Helen Van Pelt Wilson receives hundreds of photographs each year from arrangers who hope to have their artistry included she is well qualified to speak up on trends.

This she does in an introductory article, certainly worthy of any arranger's notice.

In the new calendar Mrs. Wilson says that the Japanese influence is strongly felt. She warns American arrangers, "Ours is not an Oriental country, symbolism is not intrinsic to Western culture. By all means let us acquire skillful fingers and never lose sight of the respect of the Japanese for plant material — perhaps their most valuable legacy — but should we not go beyond and allow our own creativity to develop a truly American style?"

MORE than half the entries Mrs. Wilson received were interpretive. These "mood" pieces began to take over in about 1957. Since that time arrangers have become more subtle and more imaginative.

Linear arrangements are more popular than massed.

Mrs. Wilson says that design improvement is more noticeable. No longer does she find the jammed vase, the heavy triangle, the bull's eye focal point.

The trend this year says Mrs. Wilson had been so elongate.

Accessories have been used with distinction. Figurines are being skillfully used as the dominant part of the flower arrangement.

Mrs. Wilson says that arrangers must control enthusiasms for driftwood dried materials and artificial grapes. "We still," she reminds us, "practice flower arrangement, you know."

FIFTEEN years ago broom and pussy willow were indispensable and these along with wisteria still are used. Then came the palm and the newest trend is the use of the fatsia leaf.

Pickaway County arrangers will have an opportunity to see Mrs. Donald Watt's very beautiful arrangement which is included in the calendar.

The garden editor does not know if this calendar is being sold locally. If not, calendars may be purchased for $1.50 from M. Barrows and Co. Inc. 425 Fourth Avenue, New York 16, N. Y.

This is the first big show which meets all National Council requirements that the Roundtown Club has staged.

There will be eight classes in the arrangement division, four classes in the junior division (two for youngsters in the six to ten year age group and two for the 10-14 age group.)

Bowen Rarely Loses Tubers Over Winter

Says Paygro is Good Medium for Tubers. Helps Hold Moisture

C. H. Bowen, dahlia fancier, who lives at 448 Arch Street, Chillicothe, was responsible for a fabulous exhibit of dahlias at Pumpkin Show.

Bowen, who grows at least 500 different varieties has excellent luck storing his dahlia tubers. Out of 30 crates last winter he lost only a half dozen tubers.

Bowen saws off the dahlia stems immediately after the frost. He then digs the tubers allowing dirt to cling.

When he digs the tubers he takes care to start far enough away from the stem so he does not injure fleshy tubers. And he digs deep enough so that he does not snap off tubers that are in a vertical position.

He dampens the tuber and writes the name in an indelible pencil right on the tuber. This writing will never fade off. Then he wraps the tubers in old newspapers, places them in a crate and stores in a cool cellar. He wraps two or three dahlia tubers together.

IF THE dahlia stem seems sappy he cuts it off to within two inches of tuber and sprinkles it with lime. He divides the tubers in the spring.

Bowen has found Paygro to be an excellent medium for storing dahlias. Some years he uses paygro. It is easily dampened.

No, Bowen does not hold with the idea of dipping tubers in paraffin, the treatment given dahlias by Dutch growers.

He knows some successful growers who do use paraffin but he himself feels that the tiny root hairs of the tubers cannot push through a coating of paraffin.

Incidentally this paraffin treatment is given in the spring after the tubers are divided and not in the fall.

Hey Gardeners! Here's Hope For Hurtin' Feet

Are you a gardener with hurtin' feet? Well here's good news.

An especially designed shoe for gardeners is now available, something we gardeners have long been waiting for.

Golfers don't limp around in cast-off shoes that aren't presentable to wear in public. They have sturdy comfortable shoes and all golfers do anyway is stride around a well mowed golf course.

But gardeners who spade, push lawnmowers, rake and trundle heavy loads in wheelbarrows generally wear old castoffs. What's more they wear shoes that never were designed for heavy work.

Valuable time is lost when gardeners have to sit down on the ground to empty out the grass clippings and gravel they've accumulated in their shoes.

Yep! It's the truth gardeners have hurtin' feet!

But listen to this bit of news about gardening shoes. They are designed to combine protection and comfort for the rugged jobs of the garden.

Gardeners shoes have medium high tops, so that dirt and gravel cannot get inside the shoes. They are water proof. They are sewed with nylon and dacron for extra long wear.

They have crepe wedge type outsoles and perspiration resistant leather insoles.

The Alto Company Yard and Garden Catalogue is featuring these shoes in its Christmas edition. The address is 4007 Detroit Ave., Cleveland 13, O.

Unusual Plant Material Brings Query from Ill.

A pleasant aftermath of Pumpkin Show for Mrs. Robert Younkin, 5033 West St., Ashville, was a letter from Elgin Ill.

Mrs. A. W. Umberger of that city had visited the flower show and spotted the violet jewel berry which Mrs. Younkin had used in an arrangement.

Mrs. Umberger had never seen this berried shrub and wanted Mrs. Younkin to tell her about it.

Violet jewel berry is the loveliest of plant materials for an autumn show. The berries grow close to the gracefully recurring branches and are a bright purple violet.

One excellent variety is Callicarpa Bodinieri Giraldi and may be found at Wayside Gardens Nursery, Mentor. This is a graceful shrub and is preferable to the upright species that has beautiful berries but is stiff in appearance.

VIOLET jewel berry is a small shrub rarely exceeding four or five feet in height. It blooms in August with tiny pink blossoms set close to the graceful branches.

Its real worth, however, comes in the fall when the berries are a lovely shade of violet.

It's small wonder that a gardener from Illinois would take the trouble to write for the name of this charming berried shrub.

Garden Gossip

We understand that the Ivan Kendall yard could serve as a model for a still-life depicting abundance. He has piles of gourds and pumpkins and baskets of pears, green tomatoes and even hickory nuts.

Carson Horton still has his glad corms to harvest according to Mrs. Horton who says she leaves the gardening up to Carson. He, incidentally does some of his gardening in the school solarium, like rooting geranium slips.

Mrs. Pryor Harmount, Route 1, was a guest at the Pickaway Garden Club Friday night. A birder herself she naturally was invited to hear Mrs. Elliot Reichelderfer a good bird watching friend.

Mrs. Harmount was glowing with pride because Logan Elm Garden Club had received honorable mention for its club programs, in its region. This club has hit upon the idea of using the same kind of back for their programs year after year. It's a picture of Logan Elm.

Mrs. Emmitt Barnhart, Northridge Road, is a nationally accredited chrysanthemum judge. She helped judge the Cleveland show recently.

Miss Mildred Holderman, Kingston has just returned from a trip to California and Hawaii. She says she thought the California flowers were wonderful until she hit Hawaii. There the flowers are incomparable.

We wanted to know what was blooming in Hawaii and Mil said bougainvillea, anthurium, orchids and that the lantana grew wild. She said there were orchids at her plate every meal.

In a past column we mentioned the late Mrs. Ed Wilkins once grew Bird - of - Paradise in her garden. In this month's Horticulture we read where strelitzia has to be seven years old before it will bloom. So don't try this exotic flower unless you are patient.

Ivan Rigby is recuperating from surgery at the home of his sister and brother-in-law Mr. and Mrs. Schubert Measamer, Knollwood Village. Mr. Rigby is affiliated with the art department of Pratt University. A master photographer he specializes in close-up shots of flowers. These flower slides were the basis of a Pickaway Garden Club program last year.

Buck Petty, a neighbor, will be scalping me one of these days. Mrs. Petty is gifted with a green thumb. But her chickens do a lot of damage to her lovely flowers. We are advocating putting the chickens in the pot. We've just about convinced her that flowers are more important than chickens.

Mrs. Robert Bower, Route 1, Kingston brought home autumn branches and foliage to treat with glycerine. The leaves, she says, are drying out and not taking the glycerine. She wanted to know if it was because she had not plunged them into water immediately.

We don't think so. Some foliage just does not take this treatment. Of course if the leaves were already dry the glycerine would not revive them.

Mrs. Fred Long, Kingston, says that few flowers she knows create the interest that the feather hyacinths do in the yard of the Rev. and Mrs. Hupp. These hyacinths were brought from Germany years ago by Mrs. Hupp's mother.

Feather hyacinths are quite rare. They are lovely and curious flowers and well worth growing. Not difficult either!

Mrs. Howard Davies, N. Pickaway St., was a guest at the Pickaway Garden Club Friday evening. She is a second generation garden member. Her mother lectures on horticultural subjects all over the state of Florida. So Mrs. Davies sort of grew up in the garden club.

Mrs. John Beck, Watt St., says her terrarium plants do not seem happy. Marvin Carboneau, extension horticulturist warns terrarium makers not to overwater. Water is not supposed to stand in the bottom of the container. If it does remove the lid and allow the water to evaporate.

herself a couple of seconds at the Columbus mum show. The specimen divisions of those plant society shows always provide very tough competition.

Mrs. Don Mack, Delaware, identified our visiting geese as Canadian geese. My husband described them to her.

Mrs. Elliot Reichelderfer says we are lucky because Canadian geese seldom stop at a small pond. The two geese are very trusting and will allow you to come within a few feet. But any closer they just up and fly to the middle of the pond.

Yesterday the two geese were joined by a pair of itinerant ducks. The four of them played around in a most friendly fashion but the ducks are gone this morning.

On November 2 we got all gussied-up in our best dress-and-red beads and went into town to address the Daughters of 1812 on the subject of Colonial Gardens.

When we arrived at the Heffner residence we found the houseboy washing the front windows. We thought, "Well this is the heck of a time to be washing windows when the company is due in a few minutes."

You guessed it. I went the wrong way.

Election Is Hot In Hocking County

LOGAN, Ohio (AP)—The election really got hot in the rural Gore precinct in northern Hocking County Tuesday.

As voters cast their ballots, the frame precinct home caught fire from the coal stove that had been stoked to take the chill from the room.

Election workers removed ballot boxes and booths to a general store across Ohio 75 and voting continued while Logan firemen extinguished the blaze. Damage to the building was apparently minor.

The Australian sea horse is almost invisible when it is in the midst of a seaweed because of the leaf-like growths on its body.

Francis Root Gives Report On Mum Shows

Mrs. Oscar Root, Patascala, formerly of Circleville, is a nationally accredited chrysanthemum judge. A member of the Central Ohio Chrysanthemum Society she assisted in the staging of the recent show the society presented at Whetstone Park.

Mrs. Root reported that 438 entries had been registered in the specimen division and 80 arrangements in the artistic division. According to Mrs. Root seven clubs of the Columbus area participated in the invitational division.

The best of show specimen was a "Sunny Slope Grandeur," white, large-type spider. This flower won the perpetual trophy for its grower, W. F. Tidwell.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Ruff won the award of distinction with the three best disbudbed blooms of one variety. The variety was a new harvest giant, "Frost White."

MISS NELLIE Burnsworth of Bremen won a perpetual trophy on her artistic entry "Wind and Weather". Miss Burnsworth had used driftwood and coral pink chrysanthemums.

Mrs. Root writes that the Chrysanthemum Society "Put the Show to bed at 8:30 Sunday evening. Then several of the chrysanthemum judges started out the next day at 3:45 a. m. for Cleveland where they helped judge the mum show at 9 a. m.

At this show a chrysanthemum, "Pale Moon," won the perpetual trophy for its exhibitor, Mrs. Har-racks, Cleveland.

According to Mrs. Root, "Pale Moon" brought forth more "Ohs and Ahs" from show visitors than any specimen she had ever seen.

The motto of West Virginia is "Mountain semper iberi" — mountaineers are always free.

Re-elected County Aide Dies in Hospital at 60

ASHTABULA, Ohio (AP) — Al- fred H. Fortune, 60, just re-elected Ashtabula County recorder, died Wednesday night in Ashtabula General Hospital. He had been a patient for several weeks for treat- ment of a heart ailment.

A Republican, Fortune had been recorder since 1940 and defeated John C. Crudele in Tuesday's elec- tion.

Weekly Food Review

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Frying chickens and leg of lamb battled this week for the top spot on the housewife's food ballot.

With both meats in good supply prices were hammered down. Fryers, down 2 to 10 cents a pound on the week, were pushed in the East and Midwest, while leg of lamb, off 4 to 14 cents a pound, was the top buy in the East, Midwest and Far West.

Pork loins also were strong contenders in some areas as beef took a back seat after running far ahead in recent weeks. With cold storage stocks up 8½ per cent over a year ago, Long Island duck- ings were featured in some Eastern stores.

Butter prices edged higher in some places and eggs advanced 1 to 8 cents a dozen over a fairly wide area.

An ominous note for shoppers —the wholesale food index com- piled by Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., this week rose to its highest level since June 1959.

Outstanding buys among vege- tables this week are listed as broccoli, brussels sprouts, caulif- lower, green onions, shallots, mushrooms, medium yellow on- ions, potatoes, radishes, spinach and turnips.

Best bets among fruits contin- ue to be apples, supported by emperor grapes, cranberries and chestnuts.

School Recount Hinted

CONNEAUT, Ohio (AP)—School officials may ask a recount of Tuesday's vote on a three mill levy to increase pay for teachers in this city's schools. It lost by 29 votes, 2,476-2,447.

Tigers Want Win In Friday Game

Circleville's football force has been busy all week making ample preparation for Friday's last game of the season against Pleasant View.

The contest will be played on Grove City's gridiron because Pleasant View's field has not been completed at the new school location. The kickoff is set for 8 p. m.

After gaining a 20-20 deadlock with favored Franklin Heights last week, the Tigers aim to shoot the works tomorrow for a last game victory. However, a formidable object stands in their way.

Pleasant View, although winning only two games this season and none in SCO play, has a young but capable team which has lost several tests of the heartbreaker variety. CHS scouting reports say the Panthers have size and speed and players with much aggressiveness.

CIRCLEVILLE battling through and up and down season, should enter the test in favorable physical condition. Their biggest drawback again will be the loss of Center Pat Rooney who suffered a recurring knee injury at Springfield North.

The Tigers' lineup has been dotted with sophomores this season who lack experience, but have plenty of courage and desire. The contest will have special meaning for several griders who will be playing their last game under the Circleville coat of arms. They are Ends Jake Bailey and Alex Cook, Tackles Bruce Dresbach and John Williams, Guards Dan Moffitt and Rupert Rudd, Center Steve Helwage and Halfbacks Phil Wing and Chuck McDowell.

The entire Tiger corps hopes to

OU Retains Top Rank in Grid Ratings

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
There are so many classy small college football teams around that one defeat can prove costly when it comes to making The Associated Press' top 10 rankings.

Southern Illinois absorbed its first defeat of the year—27-6 by all-winning Bowling Green—and dropped completely out of the top 10. A week ago Southern Illinois was sixth in the AP rankings, made by football experts in eight districts of the country.

Ohio University's Bobcats maintained their hold on first place by whipping Marshall 19-0 in the rain for their eighth consecutive victory. Right behind the Bobcats are nine other all-winning teams.

Lenoir Rhyne moved into second place in a switch with Florida A&M's high-scoring Rattlers. Bowling Green (7-0) moved up to fourth from fifth, followed by Iowa State Teachers, Tufts, Whitworth, Fresno State, Humboldt State and Muskingum (7-0).

Ohio U.'s ranking will be endangered Saturday when it meets Bowling Green for the Mid-American Conference title. A week later Ohio U. faces Southern Illinois, a team hoping to regain prestige.

Etta Garrett Has High Loop Scores

Etta Garrett, bowling for General Electric No. 2, tossed a 184 single game and a 496 series to emerge high bowler in Prairie Gals action this week at Prairie Lanes.

Team laurels went to Eloise Beauty Salon with 797 for a single game and 2,181 for the series.

Maris Named MVP in AL

Outfielder Believes Yanks To Win Again

RAYTOWN, Mo. (AP)—Roger Maris, the American League's most valuable player for 1960, brushed aside comment on his award today with the declaration that the New York Yankees "should go on and win it again next year."

A four-year major league veteran, Maris edged Yankee teammate outfielder Mickey Mantle by only three points—225 to 222—in the voting of a 24-man committee of the Baseball Writers Association of America. Ten players were included in the voting, announced Wednesday, with 14 points awarded for first place, nine for second, eight for third, etc.

Asked how he felt about beating out Mantle—most valuable in 1956 and 1957—the Yankee outfielder said:

"I'm just happy I won it. I thought it was possible but I wasn't sure."

Maris, 26, celebrated his fourth year in the majors—Cleveland one year and Kansas City two before becoming a Yankee—by leading the American League in runs batted in (.581). He batted 283 and hit 39 home runs, one fewer than title-winning Mantle.

Brooks Robinson, Baltimore's talented third baseman, was third in the voting with 211 points. It was the first time in history of the award three players received more than 200 points.

Following Robinson in the voting were Minnie Minoso, Chicago, 141; Ron Hansen, Baltimore, 110; Al Smith, Chicago, 73; Roy Sievers, Chicago, 58; Earl Bateman, Washington, 57; Bill Skowron, New York, 56; and Jim Lemon, Washington 56.

All-America Prospects Due To Meet in Game Saturday

CHICAGO (AP)—A couple of boys, who put bees in their opponents' bonnets, will tangle as All-America prospects in top-ranked Minnesota's Saturday challenge by dangerous Purdue.

One is this area's most impressive All-America candidate, guard Tom Brown, a 243-pound Gopher play-wrecker. The other is Purdue's 222-pound tackle, Jerry Beabout, who has been a thorn in the side of every Boilermaker opponent.

The Midwest All-America selection board today continued high praise of Brown after Minnesota's 27-10 upset of the nation's No. 1 team, Iowa, last Saturday. Brown Wednesday was named Associated Press lineman of the week for his superlative play against Iowa.

"In my opinion, he's the best football player in America," said board member Bill Jauss of the Chicago Daily News. Dick Cullum grid expert of the Minneapolis Tribune said "If an interior lineman could win the Heisman Award, Brown would be the one."

Other top-rated Midwest All-America candidates include quarterback Tom Matte and fullback Bob Ferguson of Ohio State; ends Earl Faison of Indiana and Elbert Kimbrough of Northwestern; and quarterback Wilburn Hollis of Iowa.

Matte and Hollis hook up in a personal feud Saturday as the Buckeyes and Hawkeyes clash at Iowa City in a nationally televised game which could produce a Big Ten co-champion — if Minnesota stumbles against Purdue or Wisconsin.

Matte leads the Big Ten in passing and is second in rushing to bull-like Buckeye mate Ferguson. The towering, fierce Faison continues to be a sterling performer even though Indiana is a Big Ten orphan and has won only one of seven games. Ohio State coach

Woody Hayes said of Faison after the Buckeyes' 36-7 rout of the Hoosiers Saturday: "He is one of the great ones to play in Ohio Stadium."

The Associated Press board this week also cast special citations to such players as end Tom Hall, fullback Roger Hagberg, tackle Bobby Bell and quarterback Sandy Stephens of Northwestern; halfback Bill Tunnell of Michigan; and halfback Jim Tiller of Purdue.

Teams Ready For Cage Tilts

Four county teams and three in this area will see basketball action Friday night.

Walnut opens its season with a trip to Clarksburg. Williamsport hosts Kingston. Jackson goes to Monroe in a non-league battle and Centralia hosts Southeastern.

Williamsport and Kingston will be after second wins as will Clarksburg and Centralia. Jackson and Monroe will gun for first victories.

The Trojans of Darby are scheduled to open their season Saturday at Monroe in another non-loop encounter.

Mrs. Edgington, Mrs. Williams High

Ladies Tuesday Night bowling at Circle D saw Beverly Williams crack the pins for a 222 single game, Marlene Edgington a 211 and Betty Dietrich a 205.

Top series scores were a 580 by Mrs. Williams and a 579 by Mrs. Edgington. Beverly Davis had a 553. All scores include handicap.

High team single game was a 900 by Ward's Market. The best team series was by Brown's Insurance with 2,609 pins.

Football Critics Rapped by 'Ev'

Iowa Coach Says No Apology Needed

By FOREST EVASHEVSKI
Iowa Football Coach
(Written for the Associated Press)

Don't believe some of the critics who are long on lungs and short on knowledge: College football in 1960 does not need to apologize for any aspect of it.

It is well-regulated and administered, a healthy rallying point for students, a tie between the alumni and their alma mater and a Saturday afternoon outlet for the public.

Because a young man is a good football player he can earn a scholarship which might not otherwise be available to him. Football, therefore, provides his means of securing a college education.

Eligibility regulations are a motivating factor in causing the player to improve his grade-point average. If he wants to play, of course, he must achieve the necessary standards and so he must exert himself mentally more than the average student.

The approach to the game is more thorough and scientific than ever before. Our coaching staffs are meticulous in preparation of the players. The game has become so complex that a player must keep mentally alert if he is to master the various situations.

Because of the impact of television and radio, more people than ever before are college football-conscious. Seeing it or listening to it, they become attracted and the next move is to be present at the game itself.

Equipment companies are constantly making improvement in their products. This serves to reduce injuries.

Sometimes it seems strange that it has become fashionable to criticize football. Unfortunately, most of these critics do not bother to recognize the true facts. There are many cases where the critic actually has an ax to grind, makes no pretense of being fair and is against football on general principles.

Gordon Soars To New High

Phil Gordon, ace bowler for the Blue Ribbon Dairy team, ripped into the record book last night at Prairie Lanes.

Gordon rolled the highest series of the season at the new bowling plant on Old Route 23 with a torrid 665. He turned the trick with games of 215, 244 and 206.

The consistent kegler exhibited his skill in Wednesday Night league competition. His fine showing did nothing to hurt his league leading average of 182 for 24 games.

Gordon easily wrapped up all individual honors, but Reid's Insurance, the team he was bowling against, took unit honors with a 997 single game and 2,712 pins for the series.

They'll Do It Every Time

By Jimmy Hatlo

One-Armed Football Players Star for Their Own Teams

NASHVILLE, Ga. (AP)—Franklin Luke is pretty much like any personable young high school athlete you'd meet, except for one thing. His left arm ends just above the wrist.

Usually this would be enough to discourage anyone from pursuing such two-handed sports as football and basketball.

But the farm boy, at 17, is the first string end on the Berrien County High School football team and is one of their most dangerous offensive weapons.

In his latest outing, Luke nabbed a pass with his hands and arm and ran for a touchdown. The play covered 35 yards.

Before losing his hand in a hay baler accident three years ago, young Luke appeared destined for a fine career in basketball.

"The accident didn't dampen his morale a bit," says his high school coach, Arnold Gutierrez. "After recovering, he went back out for basketball and did okay except in tight situations. He finally became discouraged and quit."

"This opened the door for another outlet—football.

"He catches the ball as well as anyone we've got and does a real good job for himself."

"Franklin is just a junior, but can hoist 135 pounds with his good arm. He can also do one-handed pushups. He has to. We don't show him any consideration so he has to do it all himself. He wouldn't want it any other way."

Gerry Lebrasseur of American International College is a prime example of an athlete who has conquered major odds.

Born with one arm, Lebrasseur has written a life story of courage and inspiration.

The senior co-captain and center on the AIC football team is considered one of the finest linemen ever to play for the Aces.

And despite his disability, he has chosen to specialize in the roughest sports of all — football and hockey.

He's been a three-year starter in both and also has had a distinguished high school career in those sports.

The 24-year-old son of a Lynn

Carpenter came to AIC through the efforts of Dr. Elmo Benedict, director of schoolboy athletics in the North Shore City.

Lebrasseur also plays intramural basketball and is an excellent swimmer. His major is in business, with a minor in education.

AIC Football Coach Gay Salvucci has this to say about his crack linebacker and kickoff man:

"We're all very proud of Gerry—he's a fine leader and a tremendous inspiration to the rest of the players. He goes all out in every game, fundamentally a very sound football player. He can tackle with the best of 'em and is a very good kicker."

Cardinals Show Vast Improvement

CLEVELAND (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals, who play the Cleveland Browns here Sunday, are a greatly improved defensive team, according to Mike Nixon, coach of the Washington Redskins.

Nixon, who has had a good chance to look at both the Cards and the Browns, said he would be hard put to compare the two teams.

"But I know the Cards have a greatly improved defensive team, that they're hustling, and that that's very important. They'll have their hands full because Cleveland has a fine offensive team. It ought to be a good contest."

The Browns beat the Redskins 31-10 two Sundays ago, and the Cards trounced them 44-7 last Sunday.

"That John Crow is a one-man gang," said Nixon, speaking of the 25-year-old halfback who scored two touchdowns and led both teams in rushing with 84 yards in 18 carries. "I haven't seen a better one in this league in a long time. He's the best back in the league, bar none."

In addition to his running, Crow connected on two touchdown passes for 75 yards.

The Cards have scored 174 points in seven games and have given up 144. That's an average of 25 per game scored and 20 allowed, compared with 31 scored and 18 permitted by the Browns.

St. Louis could move ahead of the Browns by winning Sunday. The Browns are third in the National Football League with a 4-2 record, behind the Philadelphia Eagles (5-1) and the New York Giants (4-1-1). The Cardinals are 4-3.

Blackburn Resigns As UC Grid Pilot

CINCINNATI (AP)—George Blackburn today resigned as head football coach at the University of Cincinnati, effective Dec. 1.

"Blackie," as he was called by many of his associates, became head coach following the resignation of Sid Gillman in 1955. Gillman left the city operated university to enter the professional ranks as a coach.

The Cincinnati team has lost its last five games. Marquette and Miami of Oxford Ohio, are left on the schedule.

UC football teams have been none too successful in recent years and Blackburn was on the ragged edge a year ago.

36 Governors Plan Goodwill Visit to Argentina, Brazil

WASHINGTON (AP)—Governors of 33 states and 3 U.S. territories plan to leave New York Saturday on a goodwill trip to Argentina and Brazil.

The Argentine Embassy said today the chief executives and their wives expect to return Nov. 28 after meeting with the presidents and other government leaders of the two host nations.

The governors also plan to talk with business men, farmers, industrialists and labor leaders.

The embassy said governors of the following states and territories will make the trip: Arizona, California, Colorado, Delaware, Georgia, Idaho, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Maine, Michigan, Minnesota, Mississippi, Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, Nevada, New Hampshire, New Jersey, North Carolina, North Dakota, Oklahoma, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South Carolina, South Dakota, Utah, Vermont, Washington, West Virginia, Wyoming, Guam, Samoa and the Virgin Islands.

Michigan State football players Ed Ryan, Bob Szwast and Tom Winicki were teammates on Leo High School's 1956 Chicago City championship squad.

Jane Withers Successfully Leaves Child Star Status

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Jane Withers belies the popular notion that child film stars grow up to be neurotic, bitter and broke.

She is none of those. Easing gently into character roles at 34 (actually she has been playing characters all her life), she retains the same buoyant attitude she had as a bob-haired youngster.

"A lot of people say to me 'Isn't it a shame you never had a normal childhood?'" Jane remarks. "Nonsense! I had the most wonderful childhood any girl could imagine. I was 10 years at Fox, from 8 to 18, and I remember them as great years, full of fine memories."

She is now enjoying a sentimental tal journey back to the home grounds of her childhood. She is playing a wisecracking photographer in "The Right Approach."

What makes the return all the more exciting for her is that she is being directed by David Butler.

"Mr. Butler gave me my first job in pictures," she recalled. "That was when my mother and I sneaked onto Fox lot. Back home in Atlanta, Ga., I had been on radio since I was 2, had my own program at 3, billed as 'Dixie's Dainty Dewdrop,' if you can imagine. My mother brought me out to Hollywood, convinced that I would set the town on fire."

"After we sneaked on the lot, we found out about an audition for kids to play in 'Handful of Care.' All of us were lined up and Mr. Butler went down the line and picked out me."

She was 6 at the time, and the movies weren't ready for her. But a couple of years later Butler again picked Jane to play the mean little kid with Shirley Temple in "Bright Eyes." The film made her a star.

Jane Withers Successfully Leaves Child Star Status

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Jane Withers believes the popular notion that child film stars grow up to be neurotic, bitter and broke.

She is none of those. Easing gently into character roles at 34 (actually she has been playing characters all her life), she retains the same buoyant attitude she had as a bob-haired youngster.

"A lot of people say to me 'Isn't it a shame you never had a normal childhood?' Jane remarks. "Nonsense! I had the most wonderful childhood any girl could imagine. I was 10 years at Fox, from 8 to 18, and I remember them as great years, full of fine memories."

She is now enjoying a sentimental journey back to the home grounds of her childhood. She is playing a wisecracking photographer in "The Right Approach."

What makes the return all the more exciting for her is that she is being directed by David Butler.

"Mr. Butler gave me my first job in pictures," she recalled. "That was when my mother and I sneaked onto Fox lot. Back home in Atlanta, Ga., I had been on radio since I was 2, had my own program at 3, billed as 'Dixie's Dainty Dewdrop,' if you can imagine. My mother brought me out to Hollywood, convinced that I would set the town on fire."

"After we sneaked on the lot, we found out about an audition for kids to play in 'Handle With Care.' All of us were lined up and Mr. Butler went down the line and picked out me."

She was 6 at the time, and the movies weren't ready for her. But a couple of years later Butler again picked Jane to play the mean little kid with Shirley Temple in "Bright Eyes." The film made her a star.

LIVIN', MORE OR LESS—With Washington as a base, you can see what percentage more, or less, you need to live as well in other representative cities around the nation. The Washington family budget is $6,147 at autumn 1959 prices, and the family consists of a wife (unemployed), an 8-year-old daughter and a 13-year-old son. The National Industrial Conference Board, New York, comes up with these comparisons, using Bureau of Labor statistics. (Central Press)

Dear Abby...

By Abigail VanBuren

Small Town 'Freedom'

DEAR ABBY: Our pastor's wife died a few months ago and the whole town is running after him to help him replace her. He's in his early fifties and seems interested in a pretty little school teacher who is 33. She has never been married, either. She is 38 a good wife. The problem is she has an older sister who has never been married, either. She is 38 and gives piano lessons. The 38'er wants this pastor very much but I think the pastor prefers the 33'er. I'm sure the 33'er would grab the pastor fast if her sister weren't in the running. The town is divided. Who should get him? Some say the 38'er, as it may be her last chance. We'd like your opinion.

FRIENDS OF BOTH
DEAR FRIENDS: The town should stay out of it. The pastor should court whom he wishes. And the sisters should wait to see which (if either) he selects.

DEAR ABBY: I went steady with Russell for three months. He's a wonderful guy but he was tagged for speeding twice and was cited for three other traffic violations in the past six weeks. He had his license taken away from him but he drives anyway. My Dad found out about it and made me break up with him. I don't think this was fair. Wouldn't it be punishment enough to forbid me to ride with him? I am 16 and Russ is 17.

RUSS' GIRL
DEAR GIRL: I agree with your dad. How "wonderful" could a guy be who continually breaks the law, has his license revoked but drives anyway? He's bad news. Stay away from him.

DEAR ABBY: I am a size 12. My sister should be a size 12, too, but she is a size 14. She is always "going on a diet tomorrow." Last January she admired a dress of mine, so I gave it to her hoping it would be an incentive to stick to her diet. She seemed delighted with the idea, accepted the dress and promised she'd stick to her

Grease to Greece

BALTIMORE (AP) — The clerk at the library thought the little girl asked about Greek fiction. "This is, until the child produced an assignment note which said: 'How to reduce friction — example, grease.'"

Thanks for your support and the confidence you placed in me by electing me to represent you in Congress.

I will endeavor, at all times, to be worthy of your confidence and I will stand ready to be of service to any and all the people of the Sixth Congressional District.

Thanks, again.

Johnson Always Close Second to Jack Kennedy

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A surprisingly boisterous chorus of $100-a-plate cheers erupted one night last spring when a special guest was introduced to a ballroom crowd of Connecticut Democrats.

Not completely startled by the enthusiasm, the master of ceremonies leaned toward Lyndon B. Johnson and whispered: "Next to Jack Kennedy, you've got the warmest response."

Today—next to Jack Kennedy—Lyndon Baines Johnson of Texas has the highest honor his countrymen can bestow, election to the vice presidency.

He steps into a post raised to political eminence, ironically, by the man he will succeed, Richard M. Nixon.

If there was any doubt of the newfound political significance of the vice president's chair it was buried quietly last summer in a Los Angeles hotel room when Johnson, left at the gate in his bid for the presidency, agreed to run for the second spot.

As Senate majority leader he wielded great power on Capitol Hill, and Lyndon Johnson is not one to settle for a lesser role.

Johnson's legislative wizardry is well established. His lapel-to-lapel cloakroom tactics ranged from classroom logic (he once was a school teacher) to unmasked logrolling (he was chairman of the Democratic conference, policy and steering committees).

He was born in Texas hill country Aug. 27, 1908, into a family of modest means but rich political heritage.

Both his father and grandfather served in the Texas Legislature, but it was not until Lyndon had satisfied a teen-age fling for adventure with a hitchhiking jaunt to California that he settled on a political course for himself.

After a heart-to-heart talk with his father, Lyndon borrowed $75 and set out for Southwest Texas State Teachers College at San Marcos. He graduated in 1930 and returned later as a teacher.

In 1937 Johnson ran for Congress and won over nine opponents by singing loudly a New Deal theme that won the attention of President Franklin Roosevelt.

He once said he seldom thought of politics "more than 18 hours a day," and many still recall his terse explanation of why he agreed to run for the vice presidency: "I want to serve and to serve well," he said. "I will leave it to my fellow Democrats, my fellow Americans, to determine what will be the title on my door."
